2011-05-21

Matt Dunne presented at the Citizen Leadership in a Connected Age Conference, held May 21 2011 at the Vermont Technical College. The conference focused on how Internet use is expanding at the community level across Vermont to improve economic and local service opportunities, with the goal to further, not compromise, our values around community. Community leaders as well as those in education, technology, business and nonprofit sectors shared their expertise.
